ANTI-MALARIAL RESORTS.

In presenting this GUIDE to the public the Erie Railway Company has kept in view the fact that people seeking sojourning places in the country especially desire to avoid all localities subject to malarial influences. The Erie is peculiarly fortunate in the anti-malarial character of the country through which it passes. The pure air, rapid waters, and high elevations of the Ramapo, Delaware, and Neversink valleys, and the back regions of Ulster, Sullivan, Orange, Pike, Wayne, and Delaware counties, are persistent foes to the diseases that have become so prevalent in other parts of the country. Malaria cannot originate in the above localities, and physicians are annually sending patients afflicted with malarial affections to the above health-renewing resorts along the Erie.

COMMUTATION TICKETS MAY BE OBTAINED AT THE COMPANY'S OFFICE, 187 WEST STREET.

A TOPOGRAPHICAL MAP,

Showing the Lakes, Streams, Mountains, and all points of interest mentioned in this book will be issued by the Erie Railway Company in June of this year. Copies of the map, as well as time-tables, circulars, &c., may be had on application at the offices of the Company, 261, 401, 957 Broadway, N. Y.; 2 Court street, Brooklyn; 34 Hudson street, Hoboken; 184 Market street, Newark; at station ticket offices along the line, or by mail to

LAKES MOHONK AND MINNEWASKA.

Via Erie Railway to Goshen; thence via Montgomery Branch and Wallkill Valley Branch to New Paaltz; thence via Stage or Carriage.

Amongst the highest and raggedest peaks of the Shawangunk mountains, in Ulster County, N. Y., where only a few years since the foot of man had seldom trod, are a number of most remarkable and charming lakes. One of these, Lake Mohonk, has been accessible for several years, and tourists and permanent summer guests have found an excellent stopping place at the large hotel there. Two years ago Lake Min-newaska was made a summer resort. It is on the rocky crest of a Shawangunk peak, near "Sam's Point," the great height that overlooks the entire Wallkill Valley, immediately beneath it, and commands an unobstructed view of the greater part of the Eastern and Middle States.
They are reached by a most enjoyable drive, on a highway that commands as many wonderful glimpses of scenery as any of the famous White Mountain drives. Bass and pickerel fishing.

HOTELS.

AT MOHONK.—Mohonk Lake House, nine miles from New Paaltz.
Accommodation for 200; $15 to $20; $3.50 per day. Boats, livery, telegraph office. No liquors.

AT MINNEWASKA.—Minnewaska Heights House, sixteen miles from New Paaltz, seven miles from Ellenville. Accommodation for 200; $15 to $20; $3.50 per day. Boats, livery, telegraph office. No liquors.

107 Miles from New York: 1 Train from and 2
Trains to New York daily; 1 Train to New York Sundays.

FARE, $3.30; EXCURSION (4 DAYS), $4.70.

On the banks of the Delaware, 1,000 feet above the sea. In the midst of the most romantic Pike and Sullivan county scenery. Shohola Glen, one mile from the station, is a wonderful collection of gorges, waterfalls, precipices, and deep pools. It has been pronounced equal to the famous Watkins Glen. The Shohola Creek, a celebrated trout stream, enters the Delaware at this place. Panther Brook, another trout stream, with several fine cataracts, comes in a short distance above. The Falls of the Shohola are another attraction. There are nine mountain lakes reached easily from Shohola, the farthest 6 miles. They are Hagan, Hagai, Big, Montgomery, Sand and York, in Sullivan County, and Brink and Big and Little Walker in Pike County, all stocked with bass and pickerel. Bass fishing in the Delaware. Deer, bear, fox, rabbit, partridge, and woodcock shooting. Romantic walks and drives.

Shohola is the station from which the most picturesque portion of Sullivan County is reached. This is in the vicinity of Eldred, among the Sullivan Highlands and lakes, 1,800 feet above tide. A drive of five miles from Shohola.

The immediate surroundings of Callicoon are of the wild and rugged character that prevails in the upper Delaware Highlands, but a few minutes' ride will take the visitor to the valley of the Callicoon Creek, which is for miles a continuation of splendid farms. Callicoon village is the centre of one of the famous trout regions of the Delaware Valley. The Callicoon Creek, which enters the Delaware a short distance below the station, threads the back wilderness and the splendid farming section mentioned. Along its entire course, from the hills on either side, tributary streams flow into it at short intervals. The main stream and its feeders are natural trout creeks, and all the season long they afford royal sport to the angler. These brooks are within an area of five miles from the station. On the Pennsylvania side of the river is Hollister Creek. For two miles from the river this creek flows through a wild and narrow gorge, and seeks the level of the river by a series of wonderful waterfalls. There are numerous lakes on both sides of the river, the famous Bethel township lakes, in Sullivan County, being within easy reach. In Wayne County, Gallilee Lake, Duck Harbor, Swago Lake, and others, are near and convenient of access. Bass, pickerel, and perch fishing are attractions of these waters. Callicoon Depot and Callicoon are different post offices.

IN THE HUDSON HIGHLANDS.

The "Newburgh Short Cut" branch of the Erie, which leaves the main line a mile east of Turner's, opens up a country that is wonderful in many ways. The road runs along the base of the lofty Highlands. The range is cut with deep glens and valleys, and in its rocky crests holds many a shimmering lake. On the left is Schunemunk Mountains. The lake system of the Highlands is one of the greatest marvels of the section. From the Hudson to the New Jersey State line, no less than forty lakes, of different areas and degrees of altitude, and all surpassingly beautiful, nestle among the crags and on the bold plateaus. Some are still surrounded by the solitude of a century ago. Others occupy charming positions nearer by, and have become noted centres of summer resorts. They are all stocked with bass, pickerel, and other game fish. Over a hundred years ago the waters of some of the lakes were economized for manufacturing purposes, the iron-furnace of the region being the main industry that they fostered and made successful. As an evidence of the purity of the water comprising them, it may be stated that they are natural trout haunts, and it was not until pickerel and other voracious fish were placed in the lakes that trout disappeared from them.

Aside from the delightful scenery of the Highlands, it is a fact which the experience of years has demonstrated, that the air which circulates among these hills and valleys is possessed of curative properties that render the existence of pulmonary or bronchial difficulties next to an impossibility from the Schunemunk range to the Cornwall Hills. It is stated that there is a well defined line which marks the boundary of this rare mountain atmosphere, and that the area of its presence is within the mountain elevations just mentioned. There are innumerable instances of invalids being restored to robust health by a few seasons spent in the Highlands, prominent among them being the late N. P. Willis, the poet, who visited Cornwall a confirmed consumptive, spent one season in the mountains, and was so much benefited that he became a resident, and was restored to health. The value of this region as a sanitarium is now recognized by leading physicians, and many patients suffering with lung or throat diseases are annually recommended by them to seek some one of the favorite resorts among the Highlands, on the line of the Erie Railway.

The fame of this resort is world wide. Not less than five thousand people annually summer in the Cornwall district, and among the guests who are now regular annual visitors there are many who came to Cornwall as invalids years ago. The wonderful therapeutic qualities of the Cornwall air was first made known to the public generally by the poet Willis, who took up his residence there twenty-five years ago the beautiful "Idlewild" that he called into existence being still one of the attractions of the place. Physicians are now sending patients to Cornwall for affections that it was formerly thought could not be benefited in a climate other than the Bahamas, Bermudas, or the Lake Superior region. Storm King and Old Cro' Nest, two ancient crags famed in story and song, belong to Cornwall. The hotels and boarding houses of Cornwall are all of a high class. Accommodations for all kinds are equal to any summer resort in the Union. The drives to West Point, to Newburgh, to New Windsor, and the hundreds of shorter mountain drives and walks are unsurpassed.

ON THE NEWBURGH BRANCH.

West of the Schunemunk Mountains is the romantic valley of the Murderer's Kill, through which the branch of the Erie Railway extending from Greycourt to Newburgh passes. The valley, like this entire section of Orange County, is full of historical associations. The Newburgh Branch and the Short Cut unite at Vail's Gate, six miles from Newburgh. It was at the former place that Generals St. Clair and Gates were quartered when the army was encamped in the vicinity. The Edmoston House, their headquarters, is still standing. It was built in 1755. At Washington Square, two miles from Vail's Gate, General Clinton had his headquarters in the Falls House, still intact. An ancient Indian burying-ground, and a number of very old churches are in the vicinity. Pickerel, bass, and perch fishing in the adjacent lakes. The sojourning places along this Branch that have become very popular among people who love true pastoral surroundings, are as follows:
